SUMMARY

I love systems, structure, and logic. I believe in breaking down the problem in order to make a well thought out plan before any code gets written. From building out the backend all the way through to a well-polished UI, I enjoy the entire process. I find that communication and collaboration are essential to a well functioning team.

In addition to successfully completing an intensive 10-week Web Development Bootcamp, I also hold a Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA), as a Marketing Major. I come from a non-profit background, wherewith heaps of empathy, I helped clients identify barriers to employment and move towards their personal goals. I now bring a passion for problem-solving and collaborating with clients to the tech sector. Colleagues and clients have often commented on my calm demeanor.
